Hollywood Comes to Brooklyn: Gravesend Spins up Season 3 on the Boardwalk

By Robert Pearl Soon after the smoke dissipated from the first fireworks of the summer on the Coney Island Boardwalk on Friday, June 21st, a short distance away a voice yelled out, "Clear the set, quiet all around." Against the backdrop of a strawberry moon, the dimly lit boardwalk became the perfect venue for some "family business." The cast and crew of the "hit" series Gravesend got busy in an overnight "shoot" for the upcoming Season 3, streaming on Prime.

Following a successful Season 2, which ended with neighborhood Fourth of July fireworks, the production spanned numerous Brooklyn neighborhoods, filming at iconic locations such as Lenny's Pizzeria, L&B Spumoni Gardens, Sheepshead Bay Marina, Michael's of Brooklyn in Marine Park and even using a Bergen Beach residence as the home of key characters. "We love interacting with people in the neighborhood, and the actors are more than happy to take pictures with passersby," said Michele Frantzeskos, producer of Gravesend.

When the creator of the popular series, William DeMeo, is not in front of the camera as the main character, mob-soldier Benny Zerletta, he's sitting in the director's chair behind the scenes. On set was Peter Gaudio, aka Filming continues across Brooklyn, with top-tier celebrities recently spotted in the neighborhood, such as Talia Shire (Adrianne of "Rocky fame") and NBA basketball legend Shaquille O'Neal, who plays a new character named "Mustafa," running an operation in Bedford-Stuyvesant.

Gravesend revolves around Benny Z's struggles as a soldier in the Colezzo crime family set in the 1980s. With the highly anticipated Season 3 in production, viewers are promised an even more gripping continuation of the saga. "You haven't seen nothing yet," teases the production team, as our Brooklyn neighborhoods become the backdrop stages of Hollywood.

Splish Splash as Kids Make a Dash for Fox Playground Pool Opening

By Loretta Chin

Kids and family members gathered from all over the neighborhood for the opening of the Fox Playground Pool that took place on Thursday, June 27th, at East 54th Street and Avenue H.

The 40' x 20' x 3' mini pool, formally known as the David Fox/P.S. 251 pool, was one of a multitude of NYC free outdoor pools officially slated to open that day.

Returning lifeguards greeted the children like they were old friends because they knew them from previous summers. They joined the seasonal park workers, maintenance crews, supervisors, managers and other park personnel to ensure that all was in order.

After vacuuming the bottom and scooping any debris from the surface of the pool that piled up after the heavy rains and winds that hit the area the previous night, the water was tested and deemed in perfect condition for a fun swim for all.

With clicker in hand to ensure that the number of kids did not exceed the maximum capacity of 32, City Seasonal Aide Enrique Smith took up his station at the entrance of the pool to ensure that all visitors complied with the rules regarding the 44" minimum height, attire, showering and other rules related to behavior, items on the deck and other prohibitions. Lifeguards manned their stations at the other end of the pool with watchful eyes to ensure that everyone had access to safe summer fun.

The excited children were finally allowed to enter the pool with joyous shouts as the seasonal workers expressed satisfaction because the kids were so happy.

"This is why we do this with all this stress and work — looking at these kids makes it all worth it," a seasonal worker said as she was finally able to walk away from the line.

The pool is open from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily with a break for pool cleaning between 3 to 4 p.m.

A reunion of kids and their lifeguard.

A mother and her kids patiently wait with a pool buddy for the grand opening.

Enrique Smith holds his clicker in hand as he counts the number of children entering the pool.

The water sure looked good on a hot day!

East New York Hundreds Gather at Prayer Vigil for Haiti, Calling for Unity Against Gang Violence

By Claudy Vilme On Wednesday, June 19th (Juneteenth), a prayer vigil was held at the Christian Cultural Center, 12020 Flatlands Avenue, to address the dire situation in Haiti, plagued by rampant gang violence. The event had about 800 people in attendance, who came together to stand in solidarity with the Haitian community during these tumultuous times.

The vigil featured moving performances, including a singer and a choir from Canarsie's Beraca Baptist Church, setting a solemn yet hopeful tone for the evening. Prominent figures in attendance included Rev. Al Sharpton, founder and president of the National Action Network; Dr. Karl LaTortue, president of the Haitian Medical Association; Wilkinson Theodore of the Evangelical Crusade Christian Church; and Felina Backer from Gethsemane SDA Church. Also present were Councilwomen Mercedes Narcisse and Farah Louis; Stephanie Delia, executive director of Little Haiti BK; and Lovely Paulemon, representing Mayor Eric Adams' office in his absence.

These leaders shared a powerful message: "It's not about the money; it's about the people. People's lives don't have a price tag." They stressed the importance of unity and collective action to address the injustices occurring in Haiti. The speakers emphasized that the focus should be on the well-being and safety of the people, urging the community to come together and take action against the escalating violence.

The vigil spoke of the need for immediate and collaborative efforts to bring peace and support to Haiti. The heartfelt prayers, combined with the stirring music and powerful speeches, served to inspire hope and a renewed commitment toward making a tangible difference in the lives of those affected by senseless gang violence.

The gathering not only brought awareness to the pressing issues in Haiti, but also galvanized the community to work together for a brighter, safer future. You could sense the solidarity and determination of the attendees, highlighting their shared purpose.

Marine Park Quality of Life Issues Discussed at 63rd Precinct Sector B Meeting

By Loretta Chin Residents with a lot on their minds shared their concerns with their Neighborhood Coordination Officers (NCOs) at their quarterly 63rd Precinct Sector B meeting, held on Wednesday, June 26th, at 2245 Kimball Street.

NCOs Felicia Grant and Mario Guerrero, who was filling in for Detective Tricia Navarro-Caraballo, greeted about two dozen people gathered in the meeting space provided by St. Columba Roman Catholic Church to discuss quality of life issues within Sector B, which encompasses Marine Park and Fraser.

Grant announced that they would be conducting a Rotation Tow operation that evening and to forward information to her about any abandoned cars that Community members then had a chance to bring up any problems they were experiencing in their sector. Some of the vehicular complaints were related to double parking on Kimball Street, between Avenues U and V; by the Jeep dealership on Flatbush Avenue; and by the bus depot on Utica and Flatbush Avenues.

Residents said that there was always a problem with buses double parking in that area, but the situation has worsened due to the construction of concrete islands that have changed traffic patterns and reduced access to Utica Avenue.

"Now that they've narrowed that section at Avenue S and Flatbush, they've lost a lane; now [the buses] double park in the right lane and they're out of control," a resident said.

He expressed concern about the traffic lights malfunctioning that day with cars crisscrossing against the lights while pedestrians were coming off of Flatbush or Utica Avenues at the same time.

"It's just messed up - it has nothing to do with the police department but now that they've narrowed those streets, they can't be there like that."

Grant said that wasn't really sector B because it's on the other side of the street, but they will try to look into it to try to free up some of the traffic, especially at night.

Another continuing issue of contention was related to illegal scooters and motorbikes. Residents inquired about police policy because they are still seeing them break the law, especially by the medical centers that receive daily deliveries where the drivers are constantly driving recklessly on sidewalks or against traffic on one-way streets.

"We have a right to be able to cross the street and I'm afraid that one of them is going to hit me," another resident said. "So the people have no rights; everybody else has rights."

Grant disagreed and explained the different situations related to enforcement, which she said takes place often, but there is a process whereby some get arrested, others have their licenses suspended and some offenders can get their scooters back after they've complied with the law.

Other complaints were about speeding on Avenue T, from Hendrickson Street up to Mill Avenue; an event space on Flatbush Avenue, between Avenues S and T, that is a problem every Friday or Saturday night; helicopters flying overhead so close that they shake the houses and disturb the peace; dumping at a green space located at East 52nd Street and Avenue T; graffiti, furniture, garbage and dollar vans near 1860 Flatbush Avenue; and pot smoking and other inappropriate behavior on or near the location of the church where the meeting was taking place.

"Aside from the illegal dumping, parking and everything like that, it's like a truck stop at night," said one resident who requested more police presence in the area. "They just do whatever they want: smoke, drink, loud radio and all that." Residents were advised to call 911.

Earlier, Nancy Walby, who volunteers with NYC Emergency Management, spoke briefly about the NYC Community Emergency Response Teams (CERT) and the work they do.

She said that the top emergency in the city was related to fire. "It's not hurricanes, it's not flooding; it's fire," she said. She stressed the importance of having a "go bag" in case of emergencies like fire, flooding, gas leaks and other evacuation situations.

NCOs Felicia Grant and Mario Guerrero meet with Sector B residents in the spacious multipurpose room.

Godfather of Harlem Comes to Canarsie – Shooting Underway for Season 4

By Robert Pearl

The Canarsie hood was transformed into an earlier era when shooting was underway for the highly anticipated fourth season of Godfather of Harlem, a historical crime drama centering around the notorious Bumpy Johnson, played by Forest Whitaker, an American crime boss who was born in 1905 and rose to infamy in Harlem.

Executive Producer Jim Acheson shared some insights about the upcoming season. "Bumpy is trying to grow away from his current business and follow the influence of Malcolm X," he revealed. This season introduces a new character, real-life gangster Frank Lucas, played by Rome Flynn, adding fresh intrigue to the storyline.

On Tuesday, June 25th, the crew was seen filming a scene in a storefront on Avenue L, near East 94th Street, that was converted into a pawn shop, with old classic cars from the 1960s lining the streets. This setting perfectly captured the tumultuous period in historical Harlem, adding to the authenticity of the series.

The series, which premiered in September 2019, has garnered acclaim for its compelling storytelling and rich historical context. It narrates the fictionalized account of Bumpy Johnson's life after his release from a 10-year prison sentence in the early 1960s. Upon his return, Johnson finds Harlem in disarray, with the Italian mob controlling the streets. Determined to reclaim his territory, he wages war against the Genovese crime family. In the midst of this turmoil, Johnson forms a strategic alliance with Malcolm X, a prominent Muslim minister and political figure.

This alliance places Malcolm X in the precarious position of being entangled in both social upheaval and a violent mob war. The series also touches upon the influence of James Baldwin, a renowned writer and orator, whose works and speeches reflect the tumultuous period.

The production crew wants the neighborhood to know how much love and support they have received from the local community. As the cameras continue to roll in Canarsie, fans eagerly await the release of Season 4, anticipating another intense and rich chapter in the saga of Bumpy Johnson. The series, which airs on Epix, not only entertains but also sheds light on a critical era in American history, blending fact with fiction to create a gripping narrative.

The 69th Precinct Clergy Council held its annual Police Officer and Community Prayer Awards and Dinner on Thursday, June 27th, at Liberty Hall Cathedral of Praise, 1387 East 96th Street. The event was attended by dozens of police officers of every rank, many of whom were award recipients.

Dr. Gale Forde, Dr. Cheryl Barker and Reverend Gesner Sagesse, members of the 69th Precinct Clergy Board, said opening prayers and gave welcome remarks. Rev. Sagesse asked for "the spirit of wisdom, knowledge and understanding" for the officers, "so they could make the right decisions." Other clergy included the Very Reverend Edward R. Kane of Holy Family Church, who also prayed for the NYPD and Canarsie.

Before introducing the Guest of Honor, First Deputy Police Commissioner Tania Kinsella, Clergy Council President Reverend Cecil Moonsam gave an update on the organization's accomplishments and extended an open invitation to upcoming events such as the prayer vigil awareness meetings held at Rockaway Parkway near the "L" train and the annual Community Gospel Splash held at Canarsie Park.

Kinsella thanked Moonsam for recognizing her and applauded the other officers, saying, "The police commissioner and I are very lucky to have such wonderful men and women in the 69th Precinct, so thank you for all that you do in this community. I humbly accept my award on your behalf because it's you who do the work and we cannot be us without you."

Others, including Chief Charles McEvoy, Chief Richie Taylor, Lieutenant Ira Jablonsky, Captain Dion Hinds and Captain Alexander Cedillo, praised the 69th Precinct Clergy Council, referring to it as "one of the best" and commended Moonsam for his initiative. Similar sentiments were expressed by Assemblywoman Monique Chandler-Waterman (AD 58), Jennifer Viechweg-Horsford, representative for State Senator Roxanne Persaud (SD 19), and community leaders, including Gardy Brazela.

Other highlights at the function were praise dancing and musical and singing renditions.

Community Affairs Officers Samuel Maria, Nicole Rostant and Auxiliary Coordinator Dukens Riche were among the awardees who received plaques that read, "In Recognition For Your Service and Outstanding Dedication. From 69th Precinct Clergy Council."

After the presentations and dinner, Rev. Moonsam said a closing prayer and thanked everyone who contributed to the evening's success.

Commanding Officer Foresees a Pretty Good Summer for the 69th Precinct

By Brenda Cox

The 69th Precinct Community Council held its last monthly meeting before breaking for summer on Tuesday, June 25th, at the Hebrew Educational Society (H.E.S.), 9502 Seaview Avenue.

Captain Dion Hinds, commanding officer of the 69th Precinct, gave an update on crime statistics, stating that there's been a slight uptick in commercial burglaries, which is due mainly to persons leaving their vans unlocked and having tools and other property stolen.

Robberies were also up, committed mainly around the Flatlands/Bildersee area, by juveniles 13 to 17 years old, who target other juveniles and, in some cases, delivery persons in the area. The fact that the culprits are juveniles, often of very young parents, is another problem in and of itself.

On a brighter note, the captain reported that car thefts were down and noted that "we could expect a pretty decent summer" if things continued on that trajectory. He stated that his department was looking forward to celebrating National Night Out Against Crime on Tuesday, August 6th. Hinds was also proud to present Cop of the Month awards from the 69th Precinct and Assemblywoman Monique Chandler-Waterman (AD 58) to Police Officer Kaleem Zaheer.

According to Hinds, Officer Zaheer, along with Sergeant Sean Keegan, and Police Officers Mariam Shengelia and Adnan Hussain, observed an individual with an outstanding warrant brandishing a black firearm on Instagram Live at the southwest corner of Seaview Avenue and Rockaway Parkway, around 11:05 p.m. on Saturday, May 18th. Upon arrival at the location, the perpetrator was arrested for the outstanding warrant. Upon further investigation, they discovered a loaded black 9mm SCCY firearm.

During the Q&A that followed the announcements, one person asked about shuttered businesses in the community. Jennifer Viechweg-Horsford, representative for State Senator Roxanne Persaud (SD 19), explained that the senator is currently working with the Department of Small Business Services (SBS) to determine how they could better support local businesses.

Recently, Persaud, with a team from her office, SBS and Canarsie Merchants Association representatives, visited several merchants along the Rockaway Parkway corridor and are implementing a plan to assist them, based on their findings.

Representatives from the offices of Chandler-Waterman and Councilwomen Farah Louis (CD 45) and Mercedes Narcisse (CD 46) also gave reports about available resources and upcoming events in their districts.

Community Council Asst. Secretary Lucina Clarke, Secretary Hon. Melba Brown and Captain Dion Hinds.

Cop of the Month Kaleem Zaheer, holding awards, with Captain Dion Hinds, Community Council President Gardy Brazela and members, Father Edward Kane and elected officials' representatives.
